

Some Students Can Get Food Stamps

You are a student, if:

-  You are between 18 and 49 years old; and
-  You are physically and mentally fit; and
-  You are enrolled at least half-time in a college, university or vocational/technical school.

One of these must also be true:

-  You work at least 20 hours a week for pay
or
-  You get federal or state work-study money
or
-  You are a full-time student and a single parent caring for a child under 12
or
-  You are caring for a child in your household who is under age 6
or
-  You are caring for a child in your household between ages 6 and 11 and can't get child care
or
-  You get Families First
or
-  You are going to school under a state program approved by DHS
or
-  You are going to a program under the Trade Act.

Even if a student can't get Food Stamps, other people in the household may be able to.

Apply for food stamps at your local Department of Human Services office or call the Family Assistance Helpline at 1-866-311-4287

Legal Aid Society

Of Middle Tennessee And The Cumberland

1-800-238-1443

It's a free call.

This fact sheet is not meant to take the place of legal advice. If you have a legal problem, consult a private attorney or call your local legal aid office at 1-800-238-1443. In accordance with Federal Law and U.S. Department of Agriculture policy, this institution is prohibited from discriminating on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age, religion, political beliefs or disability. To file a complaint of discrimination, write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250 or call (202) 720-5964 (voice and TDD). USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer. This material was funded by the USDA's Food Stamp Program.